January 27, 2024 - This March, the Natural Resonance Festival will be hosting its 3rd annual online event dedicated to showcasing artists from around the globe dedicated to advocating for people and the planet. From March 2nd to March 16th, ticket holders will have unlimited access to the works of musicians, filmmakers, visual artists, and performers inspired by the environment. Profits will go towards raising funds for Client Earth, a non-profit dedicated to advocating for the planet's ecosystems. By hosting this annual online festival, Natural Resonance hopes to inspire the global community with a collective of artists who seek to bring optimism to the environmental movement.

With over 200+ minutes of back-to-back content and over 30 artists globally including creatives such as Jason DeCaires Taylor, David Rothenberg, Caroline Shaw, and Alfie Rev, the Natural Resonance Festival represents the ways art can inspire positive change; art connects people, and people can change the world.
